

https://nextdoor.com/p/RqCrQ9T2gCkn?utm_source=share&extras=NTc2MDI3NzE%3D

The screenshot shows a web browser window with the Nextdoor website. The address bar displays the URL: https://nextdoor.com/p/RqCrQ9T2gCkn?utm_source=share&extras=NTc2MDI3NzE%3D. The page layout includes a left sidebar with navigation links: Home, Discover, For Sale & Free, Notifications, and Messages, along with a '+ Post' button. The main content area features a post by Dana Nance, 'The Reserve of Farragut', dated 5 May. The post text reads: 'I have come up with an explanation that is a bit more convoluted than the surface explanation for the nasty posters on display of our town administrators. At first blush, it seems like simply hate and jealousy directed towards the voted in leadership of Farragut. This is a repeat of the tactic used by this same agitator in CT and we are just fortunate enough to now have our peaceful town inundated with this vicious nonsense. But I think it goes deeper than that. I think this is a very measured and manipulative attack to discourage future potential candidates from joining into any elections in Farragut. Would you want this monkey on your back if you not only entered the race but actually won? We have very strong leadership who have endured this harassment and abuse and I, for one, admire them for their fortitude. Using this aggressive and vile behavior to try to control the next election and who might be willing to run is not out of the realm of possibility.' The post has 20 likes and 9 comments. Below the post, three comments are visible: Jay P. (Fox Run) says 'Excellent analysis. You're spot on!'; Chad Hogue (Fox Run) says 'I muted that person. So peaceful now.'; and Sheila F. (Bailey Park) says 'Ha. You're so spot on!!! Life is much more peaceful when you just touch the mute button on here. I've done it a lot. This site can be very triggering and anxiety inducing for sure.... See more'. To the right of the post is a '#LoveYourNeighborhood Photo Competition 2023' banner with a 'Share a photo' button. Below the banner is a 'Own a local business?' section with a 'Create page' button. The Windows taskbar at the bottom shows the time as 5:18 PM on 5/13/2023.

https://nextdoor.com/p/RqCrQ9T2gCkn/c/940562682?utm_source=share

This screenshot shows the same Nextdoor page as the first, but with the comment thread expanded. The post by Dana Nance remains at the top. The comment section now shows several replies: Jeanne Brykalski (Belleaire) says 'Wow. You have really broken it down to the bare bones. Excellent job!'; Louise Povlin (Fox Run) says 'Dana, another aspect of this which is more insidious is the continued effort to represent Mayor Williams, Alderman Meyer and I as caricatures. It dehumanizes us. There's a lot of violent behavior in our world. My fear is that their continued efforts make us targets.'; Dana Nance (author) replies to Louise: 'Louise And to pretend it is all fun and games doesn't fly. Things like this do escalate. This isn't a video game or Harry Potter episode and should be treated... See more'; Louise Povlin replies to Dana: 'Dana Nance Jay was so concerned he insisted that we purchase a weapon for me. It's not funny.'; Dana Nance (author) replies to Louise: 'Louise I am glad he did!'. The comment section also includes a 'Add a comment...' input field and a 'More posts from your neighbors' section showing a post by Lawrence DeWitte (Fox Den). The right sidebar still displays the '#LoveYourNeighborhood Photo Competition 2023' banner, the 'Own a local business?' section, and a 'Neighbors You May Know' section with suggestions for Aaron Small, Jillina Caban, and Mark Cabaniss. The Windows taskbar at the bottom shows the time as 5:18 PM on 5/13/2023.